What's New In AutoCAD?

Drawings are optimized and improved. We've done a lot to make AutoCAD easier and more efficient. Help with installation: We've made installation easier with the new Homebrew Launcher. The Homebrew Launcher lets you run AutoCAD anywhere without an install (only requires an internet connection) or a large AutoCAD license (includes a free trial). Export capabilities: We've added the ability to save a drawing as an image and add notes. When you save as an image, you can export notes, keywords, and calls-out to a separate image, including transparent background. Export the image as a jpeg, gif, or png. Faster and better feedback: We've made it easier to share feedback and view drawing changes with others. You can comment on any drawing and send feedback via text, image, and Markup Assist, which allows you to create comments and edit the current drawing in a drawing or model. Drawings are optimized and improved. We've done a lot to make AutoCAD easier and more efficient. Homebrew Launcher: The Homebrew Launcher allows you to install and run AutoCAD anywhere without an install. This option requires an internet connection. The Homebrew Launcher also lets you run AutoCAD without a large license. You can download a free trial for 30 days and see how it works. If you like AutoCAD, you can purchase the full version. This option requires an internet connection. Launch AutoCAD as an Application: You can now launch AutoCAD as a Standalone application rather than as a service. In this mode, you can use AutoCAD without an internet connection. More responsive startup: The Homebrew Launcher launches faster and the startup window is quicker to open. This option requires an internet connection. Support for CPU Sockets: We now support the 4th Gen Intel Xeon Processor Sockets, which adds a new processor family: Skylake-SP, Skylake-X, Cascade Lake-SP, and Cascade Lake-X. Performance improvements: We've made important improvements to help AutoCAD load more quickly, run faster, and make you more productive. New Product Key: We've changed our key. If you previously had the code, your product key is still valid
