The current solution still lacks support for most of the drawing features for interfaces, operators and state-machine diagrams. Those areas might be of interest to some of the customers, but it's not such an important area that it's worth going into a new release for. If those features are that important, you'll need to contact the developers. Yes it can be. But it's not such an easy thing. If you want that, you can use something like YikYak where you can write some code and draw on the site. How much time you want to invest to get that? You don't need to pay for it, but you need to invest the time in writing the feature. I currently have a release of NClass Version 6.0.5.5 which I would be prepared to release, to anyone who will agree to this
