A brushes, Selections and Marquee tool The simplest selection tools in Photoshop are: the Brush tool, the Lasso tool and the Rectangle or Selection tools. These tools are useful for selecting out or isolating specific features or objects. The Brush tool can be used to paint on a layer, clone pixels from other layers, fill layers, zoom and adjust the size and shape of the area of the canvas it covers. You can make a selection using the Lasso tool by moving the cursor over the desired areas to be selected. You can select multiple areas by holding the "Shift" key and clicking on different parts of the picture. A marquee tool allows you to select an area of an image that is larger than can be covered by the Lasso tool. of those ever let me down, and I have learned from all of them. They have also taught me to trust in a God who I never really thought could love me. I have found a different, more intimate relationship with God than the one I had with Mom. You see, with Mom, I never really felt loved by her. I always felt like, "Wow, she could be so nice if she really tried." It wasn't until I received Jesus, that I realized what true love was. Mom and Jesus have never been apart. They are always together in heaven. I get to talk to mom now, and it is one of the greatest blessings in my life. She has taught me about joy, about living for God, and about love. I have recently come to realize that my whole life has been about family, and about acceptance. I have always been the smallest kid, and struggled to feel accepted by friends. One day, as I was sitting in the halls of school, I heard a little girl, (I think a lot like me) say, "But I'm still the smallest girl in the class." I realized then that her comment was about me. I'm actually "littlest," and the smallest in my class. It's not my size or my grandpa that makes me any smaller, but my God. I hear that same message in many of the little kiddos I teach. They hear it in many of my mom friends, and even in the person of my dad, who I never thought would get to Heaven. As parents, we are supposed to teach our kids that they are accepted, loved, and important. We are supposed to teach them that they are not defined by their size or any other physical characteristics. So when we hear a child say, "She is the smallest girl," or "She is the youngest in the group," we can't judge them. We are suppose to lift them up in Christ, and remind them that none of those things matter. We are suppose to show them what real love is. I would love to have mom show me how to show love the way God did. So this is the story of my mom, a tale of love, acceptance, and a family that has to each other through life. Disclaimer: We are not, and have never been,
